

Transcript of Eileen Rogers Audio Clip

Interviewer: How do you feel about your war work?

Eileen: Well, I feel that I did a bit to help [laughs]. You know, with the factories and that. Yes, while we were — while we were on spotting there was a factory in Plumstead that made motorbikes called 'Matches'. They invited us, well, it was only two of us at the time, to go along and they made us a little tea in the afternoon, a cup of tea and a biscuit, and took us around the factory that we used to give them the bell to go down to shelter — yeah.