

Transcript of Audio Clip with Pat Field

We were in London for all these horrible doodlebugs and flying bombs that they sent over. We used to play in the garden. We had a, well, we had a rented house, the sort of kitchen where we mostly lived or a big sort of dining room with a stove there was a window on the level with the ground outside and we used to go in and out of the garden. Every time you heard something coming we'd dive into the house. Things seemed to get quite normal after the end of everything and we just carried on.